Jan had made a wig, a wig that did not fit.
 A wig that was too big, too big by just a bit.
 Said Jan to Jane, "I'll take the wig,
 The wig that did not fit.
 I'll take the wig and fix the wig.
 I'll fix it bit by bit."

Ned said, "Sid the Kid did it."

Sid said, "I did not," and he split. Ned ran after the Kid.

Sid the Kid said, "I will get rid of Ned," and he hid in a can.

Ned came and sat on the rim of the can. He sat and sat and did not let Sid out of the can.

Ned said, "I bet you will not get out."

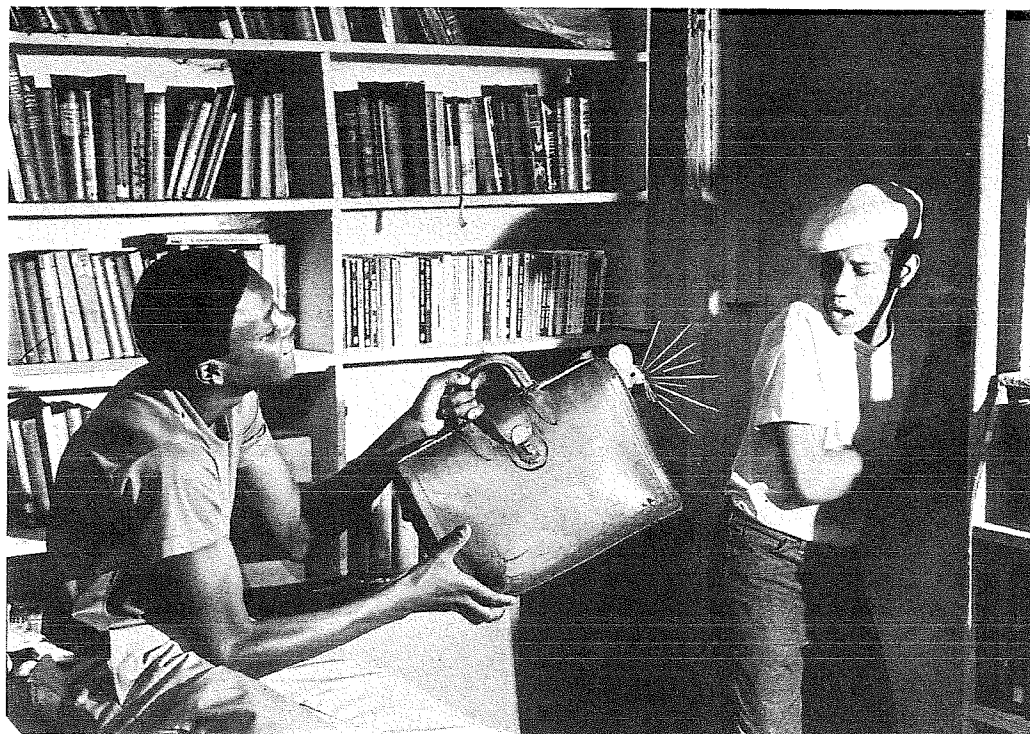

Sid had to beg to get out. "Yes, I did it! I did it! Now let me out." Ned had to let the kid out.

Said Sid the Kid with a grin, "I did not," and he ran away.

The den was not lit. It was dim. Rick was in the den. In ran Jim with a tan bag.

"What is in the bag, Jim?" asked Rick. "I would like it to be some ale or a can of Tab to tickle me up."

"No," Jim said to him. "No ale or Tab, just a big fat rat."

"Man, don't put me on," said Rick.

"No jive, Rick, I said a big fat rat."

"A rat! a rat!" Rick let out a yell. "Let me out," and Rick ran pell-mell out of the den.
