

William & Mary
School of Education

SPECIAL EDUCATION

Step into the role of special educator.

Do you dream of making a difference in the lives of young people? Make it a reality with an M.A.Ed. in Curriculum & Instruction with a concentration in Special Education from William & Mary. Our program focuses on integrating theory, research and practice so that in one year, you'll be ready to step into the classroom with the knowledge, skills and strategies to confidently teach students with varying disabilities (e.g., learning disabilities, emotional disabilities, intellectual disabilities, attention deficit hyperactivity disorders and autism spectrum disorders).

FAST FACTS

Designed for: People who wish to teach students with disabilities in inclusive settings

Prerequisite: Bachelor's degree in arts and sciences, elementary education, or secondary education; foundational coursework

Course requirements: Full-time or part-time program including field experiences

Entry term: Spring for full-time study; spring or fall for part-time study

Fieldwork: Practicum followed by a five-week, full-time student teaching experience in fall and spring

FIELD EXPERIENCES

In addition to the study of special education, you will spend time in real classrooms throughout the program.

Fall and spring student teaching experiences: You'll be placed in local schools with cooperating teacher mentors to complete an observation and interactive practicum, followed by five weeks of full-time student teaching in both fall and spring semesters. One semester you'll be placed in an elementary setting; the next semester in a secondary school. Coursework is linked to the field experiences, with faculty supporting students as they become immersed in the classroom. The full-time teaching internships provide an intensive and critical component of your preparation as a special educator.

COURSE TOPICS INCLUDE:

- Characteristics and accommodations for students with disabilities
- Current trends and legal issues
- Curriculum and instructional strategies
- Reading and math methods
- Classroom organization and management
- Characteristics of autism
- Classroom observation and student teaching
- Assessment of learning
- Collaboration for teaching and learning
- Individualized education program transition planning and services
- Classroom observation and student learned

Our program focuses on integrating theory, research and practice so that in one year you are ready to step into the classroom.

LEARN MORE

View the program of study
at education.wm.edu/ci

Questions about applying?
Contact graded@wm.edu
757-221-2317

William & Mary School of Education

CURRICULUM & INSTRUCTION

The need for highly-educated, well-prepared teachers has never been greater. There is a steadily rising demand for teachers, especially in high-need areas such as STEM, ESL/Bilingual and special education. Graduates of our teacher preparation programs are highly sought by school districts throughout Virginia and across the nation.

William & Mary is preparing tomorrow's educational leaders by providing a comprehensive experience for students. Our programs combine investigation of educational ideas and practices with supervised laboratory, clinical and practicum experiences. They are designed to develop in students the specific knowledge, skills and attitudes that are essential to effective teaching.

CURRICULUM & INSTRUCTION PROGRAM OFFERINGS

GRADUATE LEVEL:

M.A.Ed. – Curriculum & Instruction

Elementary Education

Secondary Education

(English, Mathematics, Science or Social Studies)

ESL/Bilingual Education

Special Education

Literacy Leadership

Certificates – Autism Spectrum Disorder, ESL/Bilingual Education, Gifted Education, Special Education, Reading Specialist

UNDERGRADUATE LEVEL:

B.A.Ed. – Elementary Education (optional concentrations in ESL/Bilingual and Special Education)

Education as a second major (Elementary or Secondary Education)

Minors – Educational Studies and ESL/Bilingual Education

APPLY NOW

Find full details about applying online at education.wm.edu/admissions

WHY W&M?

Looking to pursue a graduate degree in education? Here are a few reasons to consider W&M:

A welcoming and supportive community

The School of Education is big enough to offer a diverse range of programs, people and experiences, but small enough to feel like family. You'll make close connections with your fellow students and your professors — relationships that will stay with you for life and help you forge your own career path.

A focus on leadership in education

Our programs produce leaders — people with the passion, skills and tenacity to effect change in education. Our alumni achieve early recognition, becoming school leaders and innovators.

A campus in the heart of historic Williamsburg

Founded in 1693, W&M is a campus that offers years of history and countless beloved traditions.

Professors who are leaders in the field

Our faculty are recognized and respected around the world for instruction and research. They're passionate about their own research as well as the success of their students — they are, after all, teachers first and foremost.

Field experiences that will change your life

You won't be stuck in lectures and you won't have to wait until after graduation to begin making a difference in the lives of students and communities. Opportunities abound to pursue meaningful, fulfilling experiences that allow students to both learn and contribute.

Programs for students at every career stage

Our graduate programs are designed to meet the needs of a diverse student population that includes full-time and part-time students, people re-entering the paid work force after raising a family and recent recipients of bachelor's or master's degrees preparing for advanced positions in the field of education.